

Junior Designer

- Leading global brands
- Lifestyle location
- Great team environment

Quiksilver and Roxy represent a lifestyle that is dynamic and spirited. These two great brands now present a great opportunity for an enthusiastic, creative and self-motivated Junior Designer with Roxy.

This is the perfect chance to display your ability to create designs that are both uniquely Roxy and commercially successful. You know and understand the board-riding culture and have a passion for female fashion in either/both apparel and/or accessories. It goes without saying that your computer skills are first-rate across the Adobe publishing suite, balanced with an outstanding freehand style. You will have completed or are currently completing Tertiary Qualifications in a Design related field, and have a strong portfolio that reflects your style.

Your key responsibility in this graduate entry level role will be to produce high quality, high impact designs that enhance and re-affirm Roxy's ideals and reputation as the premier female surfwear label.

In return, Quiksilver offers a dynamic and positive workplace culture, plenty of opportunities to learn and build on your experience and the opportunity to contribute to our growth and ongoing success.

Just what you've been waiting for? To apply for this role you will need to forward a sample of your portfolio in PDF format along with your CV and covering letter to jobs@quiksilver.com.au by Monday 28th December, 2009.
